保護自己 防止受騙

近日社會上各行各業出現許多行騙人。5月13日我回家, 兒子說他被騙: 上星期他接到 Uber 來電話說, 只要他下一個星期能夠做 60 個客人, 公司給他加$200獎金, 在電話交流中, 對方問了他的公司 Password。2 天後兒子發現他的帳號被人盜了, 雖然公司說三天會處理賠償, 還是讓他不爽。克里夫蘭的幾家中餐廳和洗衣房還有小商場, 有行騙的人上門來告訴店主, “您們水費電費需要馬上付賬, 還要求店主到指定的 CVS 去付賬。最近一些老人會接到中國打來的電話, 說是安全部門的, 你們的身分正被人家偷了等等。

親愛的讀者, 騙子雖然可惡, 但我們還是可以做防範的措施, 現在騙子越來越多, 而且手段也越多, 比方說你接到電話以後, 你可以再打一個電話問一下是不是真的。上門來的請他拿名片, 可以到你自己的電費水費公司去核實。請你保護好你自己。

Cleveland Asian Festival this year is Chinese and will sing in English and Cantonese

Cleveland, OH Attendees of the 2018 Cleveland Asian Festival (CAF) will have two national stars to enjoy: Award-winning singer and songwriter Larissa Lam and socially conscious Hip-Hop artist Only Won.

Growing up in California as the only daughter of Chinese immigrants, Lam thought she would become a doctor like her father. For someone who hated practicing piano, Lam never imagined a career in music. Classically trained in voice and piano, Lam gravitated more towards jazz and R&B. Instead of listening to Bach and Beethoven, Lam preferred Ella Fitzgerald, Stevie Wonder and Alicia Keys. Her musical path began to take shape when she wrote her first song at age 13. Larissa Lam is now an award-winning singer and songwriter. Named by Singer Universe as one of the Best Vocalists, Larissa has captivated audiences across the U.S. at venues such as Staples Center, Lincoln Center and the Grammy Museum. Struggling to reconcile her Chinese heritage and American upbringing propels Lam to help others also struggling with identity issues.

Baldwin Chiu aka Only Won is a socially conscious Hip-Hop artist who raps about unconventional subjects like dim sum & thermodynamics. He has millions of views on YouTube with clever video parodies like I Wanna Be an Engineer and Cantonese Boy and 12 Days of DIM SUM. His music has been featured in films like Dead Man Down starring Colin Farrell and in the hit video game, Sleeping Dogs. He blended his background as a mechanical engineer with hip-hop to become a valuable spokesperson for the Intel engineering campaign Stay With It. Recently, he produced an award-winning documentary, Finding Cleveland, about discovering the lost history of his grandfather and the early Chinese immigrants in Mississippi during segregation and the Chinese Exclusion Act.

Noting the deep cultural heritage aspects of the headliners, CAF Executive Committee member Lisa Wong said, “The festival is an important showcase of the diversity in the community that we hope brings people of all backgrounds to enjoy.”

Both national acts, like all of the Cleveland Asian Festival, are free. Look for them live on the Lantern Stage Saturday, May 19, 3:30-4:00 p.m. and Sunday, May 20, 2:30-3:00 p.m.

Larissa Lam and Only Won said, “We’re excited to help Cleveland celebrate Asian heritage in America and hope people will be entertained, inspired and empowered during our performance.”
