

我認識的一位新朋友

5月11日我採訪了現住在 Kent 老人公寓里我認識不久的一位新朋友 82 歲的 Lynn, 她非常特別, 我對她十分好奇, 而她的人生也充滿了奇蹟。
Lynne 她的中文名字是田仁玲, 她十分好學, 她告訴我, 她每天 6 點起床, 坐公車到 Kent 大學, 先到圖書館復習一下中文課, 因為她星期一至星期四每天有一堂中文課, 她說她的中文老師就像虎媽, 非常嚴格。因為她在韓國生活了 20 多年, 對中國也非常有感情, 她在韓國學了 15 年書法, 她至今還記得她的書法老師, 那位韓國書法老師在台灣大學畢業, 雖然他在課堂上用韓文教課但書法都寫成中文。她肯定地告訴我, 她非常喜歡書法, 也非常欣賞喜歡中國人的禮節。
Lynne 她的家族到美國已經有 400 年的歷史, (那個時候美國還沒有成立。) 在我的眼里 Lynne 是一個非常聰明的人。她知道她要干什么。她告訴我, 她從小以為她的未來一定是個從事科學的人, 在她高中畢業後, 她去一個科研實驗室實習, 在實驗室里, 她看到女博士研究生, 她們的工資很低, 她表示當年她如果去學校讀八年

十年拿了博士學位, 出來工作就拿這麼少錢, 她說不需要這個當科學博士的未來。在她 21 歲時, 她選擇了結婚, 她決定帶孩子支持先生讀書。在她 29 歲的時候, 她開始上克利夫蘭 CIA 藝術學校學習雕塑。
她 CIA 藝術學校畢業後, 也沒有找到如意工作, 正巧克利夫蘭大學招聘, 她在那里一面學習一面演奏古老的樂器, 生活還過得過去。就在這個時候一個機會讓她去韓國, 她自己都沒有想到, 她一去韓國 20 年, 在那里她教英文, 同時很好學的她, 在韓國也拿到了韓文語言碩士學位。
Lynne 十分喜歡中國道家儒家的哲學理論: 她用中文表示: 快樂就是簡單的生活、單純的思想。人不高興, 是因為要的太多。
Lynne, 一位 82 歲的老人, 堅持學習中文, 每天把自己生活安排得有條有理, 她除了上中文課以外, 還去健身房健身。她還說: 每天最高興的是一天的開始, 她講韓文德文法文等 6 國語言, 雖然她有一段糟糕的婚姻, 但擁有精彩的一生。
我非常高興在我的生活中常常遇到像 Lynn 一樣人, 她們讓我們的生活也變得無比精彩。

The Hats in the Garden

A Joyous Celebration of Spring, Benefitting Youth Education at the Franklin Park Conservatory and Botanical Gardens
-A Personal Perspective
-by Cynthia Marek Lundeen

Dear Readers,
Spring has come to Ohio and one of the most spectacular celebrations of the season was held in its capital city of Columbus at the Franklin Park Conservatory and Botanical Gardens on May 4, 2018. An annual fundraiser supporting youth education programs, Les Chapeaux dans le Jardin, also more colloquially known as "Hat Day" is an event in which attendees, both ladies and gentlemen, don headwear from elegant to festive ... but before I tell you about the event, let me say a few words about the venue.
With a history extending over 150 years, and a stated vision of "A world that celebrates nature as essential to the human experience," this vision is achieved in abundance on 88 acres of land containing exquisite gardens and through world-class exhibitions such as "Blooms and Butterflies" to hands on classes for both adults and children.
A crowning jewel on the property is the John F. Wolfe Palm House, an exceptional example of late Victorian Era architecture with graceful curving glass and classical elements. While the art of glass making has been known to humans for thousands of years, the use of glass for large scale building projects was yet nascent in the 19th century, making this greenhouse a special treasure. Inspired by a philosophical movement which promoted beauty as essential to the quality of life, its influence is still felt today.

On the day I visited, the heavenly scent of virburnum blossoms perfumed the air and tulips, from warm sunny yellows to deep plum greeted guests along the walkways... and the hats! Just like people, some hats have larger than life personalities, others are shy and demure, while still others reflect the gardens around them, and each is wonderful in its own incarnation.
At the event the conservatory's President and CEO, Bruce Harkey, presented the Ann Isaly Wolfe Award to Karen Fiorile for her dedication, remarkable contributions and achievements, including her leadership in steering a capital campaign which is now nearing its $22 million dollar goal. Hat Day itself raised an impressive 285,000 from generous sponsors and attendees and the fruits of Mrs. Fiorile's labor and that of other donors and volunteers were on display that very day: as I wandered through the John F. Wolfe Palm House I encountered children and their teachers from Dunloe Elementary School engaged in learning about butterflies. Trustee Corey Goldsand noted that these programs strengthen the community and Nancy Cardenas, Chair of the event, added that within a few weeks the Scotts Miracle-Gro Foundation Children's Garden will open, providing additional opportunities for imaginative learning.

Kudos are also extended to staff members Jessica Fagan, Development Officer for Special Events, Jenn Wilson, Director of Marketing and Communications and Jenny Pope, Director of Community Outreach, for their contributions to creating a memorable event for attendees and exciting educational opportunities for young people.

learned that thoughtfulness and good manners never truly go out of style. While not commonly known, the first president of the United States, George Washington, found the topic sufficiently important, prompting him to author a book entitled Rules of Civility and Decent Behavior.
While etiquette is grounded in consideration for others, the forms in which it is manifested may be bewildering. The formal dinner, meant to be a feast for the senses, sometimes intimidates. The deeper meanings of etiquette as well as the outward appearances such as the mystery of a myriad of silver flatware and crystal stemware will be revealed.

There is a great deal of competition in the world and a knowledge of etiquette can be an important factor in establishing a successful professional life as well as facilitating harmonious relations in your personal life.
Join us for an etiquette course which will infuse you with the confidence to meet any situation.

Essential Etiquette, Professionalism and Navigating American Culture in the 21st Century

In every culture and in every century, from Confucius, King Louis XIV to Emily Post, we have 一個人不管在學校的教室里還是在社會大課堂, 每天都可以學到不少知識。5月的一天, 我和伊利華報特邀撰稿人 Cythia 去了哥倫布, Franklin Park Conservatory and Botanical Gardens 舉辦的 The Hats in the Garden 活動, 這個餐會讓我感受到, 美國一個只要 200 多年歷史的國家, 為什麼這麼富有, 因為是他的文化富有, 他把各個族裔人的文化與文明融合在一起。

當天在 Franklin Park Conservatory and Botanical Gardens, 陽光明媚, 加上來參加的五百多位嘉賓的盛裝與帽子, 讓我感到就像在天堂里。另外舉辦這個午餐會, 舉辦單位就可以籌款達到 $285000, 我很感謝 Cythia 帶我參與這樣的活動, 認識許多新朋友。但回到現實我還要繼續送報紙。
